

New Englanders at the World Senior Championships

by Joy Hartwell

How would you like to play a round of golf with Jack Nicklaus as your personal tutor, spend a weekend with Michael Jordan learning every hook shot in the books, or just have the opportunity and motivation to spend a week honing your disc skills knowing you're up against some of the best competitors in the sport? Welcome to the 1992 World Senior Flying Disc Championships!

This year's Seniors was hosted in Rochester, NY by Jim Palmeri during the week of July 6 - 11. Close to 50 competitors from as far away as Norway and as close as the next town over started arriving the week (or weeks) before to practice, party and reacquaint themselves with old friends which, for some, have lasted almost a lifetime.

NEFA was well represented with the second largest contingent behind California, with 7 official players and several "unofficial" players who weren't quite old enough to play (the qualifying age is 35). Representatives from New England included Tiina Booth, Sunny Cade, Jude Gladstone, Steve Hartwell, Dave Johnson, Greg Black, and Rick Williams. "Wolf pups" in training were Joy Hartwell, Allison Black, Kyle Black and Christian Loiseau.

A herd of flying NEFAns at the World Seniors in Rochester, NY

Here are some highlights from the week:

Sun PM - Steve, Joy and Dave (DJ) arrive in the middle of the afternoon in time to play 1 1/2 rounds of golf on the beautiful, but challenging, Ellison Park outside of Rochester. Tiina jumps in to play the last 9 holes with us. Dinner that night is at El Torito which is adjacent to the hotel where most players stayed. It was a grand reunion/meeting place for new and old alike.

Mon AM - Pick up Rick Williams at Rochester Airport. Can't find him, so DJ, Joy and Steve practice "mini" accuracy in the deserted concourse. Rick finally shows up from nowhere and has some long story to explain his absence. Off to Genesee Park for some MTA, TRC and Accuracy practice. Walk the discathon course - it feels long and confusing. Two more practice rounds of golf after lunch. Greg, Kyle and Allison show up and play the last round of the day with us. The NEFA rivalry begins even before the official competition has started.

Mon PM - Welcoming ceremony/pizza dinner at Genesee Park where all events except golf will be played. All new players are inducted by introducing themselves, and producing a "wolf howl" to prove their "disc-hood". Incredible players packages are then handed out, with six discs, a disc bag, a WFDF rules book, and a sweatshirt and sweatpants with Seniors logo. After the ceremonies, in honor of Pete Fust, Harvey Brandt conducts a tree climbing championship (imagine 6 grown men swinging on a tree limb like monkeys!). The winner was a matter of opinion.

The Inner Game of Folf: Stomping Out Disc Abuse

by Dave Johnson, Official NEFA Philosopher

Now that you've succeeded in "putting to the oldies", and handling confrontations with your mother when you tee off, you are ready for the next level of instruction in ... The Inner Game of Folf. For this issue, we'll learn how to stomp out disc abuse. Disc abuse is a very serious problem on the folf course that is growing worse every day. In this lesson, we'll learn how to treat our discs well by confronting our inner child-- and beating it silly. Then we'll become less likely to take it out on our poor plastic when we give it George Bush hucks. The advantages will be two fold. First, your discs will live longer and prosper (instead of being stomped on, flung into trees, and demoted to dog stock). Second, your inner child will get the good spanking it deserves, and nobody will be able to accuse you of being immature anymore.

A word of caution, if you are like me and successfully master this technique, you may find you become so mature that you haven't a clue how to act. But let me assure you, it is worth it! When I went through this exclusive process, I soon found myself acting reasonably toward my discs for the first time in my life. And you know, when I changed, they changed too; they even stopped indulging in car suck!

President's Hole

The fall tournament season is upon us, with five major events coming in the span of six weeks. We're psyched to have three new tournament directors participating in their first major endeavors -- Peter Anderson running the New Hampshire States, Carl Emerson heading Connecticut States and Lev Malakhoff leading the Caped (no, this is not a typo -- see Lev for explanation) Cod Classic. Let's give these guys encouragement and a helping hand, for the more good TDs, the more well-run tournaments and the less burn-out for the existing TDs. Realize that the tournament directors aren't in it for the money; it's largely a volunteer effort over and above full-time jobs, social lives, and actually getting to practice and play in the tournament. NEFA would cease to exist without energetic, happy TDs, so let's give them their strokes!

A NEFA board meeting was held at the Rte. 24 Burger King in Bridgewater on September 1. Decisions made were as follows:

1. Revise and update the NEFA charter, originally published in 1988, for 1993.
2. Look for and purchase a trailer to carry the tournament poleholes with NEFA treasury funds. Establish a trailer fund to pay for ongoing maintenance.
3. Order new NEFA minis to give to new members and to sell.
4. The NEFA points awards will be given out at the Caped Cod Classic on October 17. A mini polehole will be the Open prize; other category winners will receive plaques.
5. An open NEFA board meeting will be held Saturday evening, September 26, at the New England's. Officers will also be elected for 1993; interested candidates should talk to any board member.

On a personal note, I have decided not to run for NEFA President this coming year. The combination of being elected Financial Director of the PDGA and family commitments are two main reasons, but I also believe NEFA will benefit by having a fresh face in the circular office.

Sunny gets psyched to throw Grandmaster distance

Tiina sez, "No, no, Sunny -- more anhyzer on that release!"

Tues AM - Early rising for players mtg. at 7:30 am. Accuracy, TRC, and MTA are the events of the morning with Rick and Sunny doing well in Accuracy. Distance is after lunch with Sunny throwing a personal best of 102 meters! Tiina does well for the women with a 77 meter throw. Then, just when we're ready to head for the showers, it's time for the first round of golf at 4:45 p.m. and ends with the sun just dipping below the horizon.

Wed AM - Another early day with discathon for all divisions including the controlled pace version (30 seconds for each throw) for the Grand- and Senior Grandmasters. No NEFA ringers in this crowd (especially with Greg's mid-course bathroom break). MTA for Masters and golf for all groups is the venue for the afternoon with some late afternoon rain showers adding to the difficulty factor. Dave Johnson takes bragging rights for NEFA today with a 10+ second MTA time and a 55 in golf.

Thurs AM - More discathon. Sunny and Tiina are the only NEFA members to shine in this event with 2nds in the Grandmaster and Women's division respectively. Accuracy is next, with Greg and Steve making valiant efforts with 13 out of 28 possible "hits". They don't make the finals, but Jim Herrick, formerly from Wellesley, MA, does as he smokes with a 17. Double Disc Court came after lunch with some excellent games and extremely tough competition. Jim Herrick and Harvey Brandt just miss first place against Danny McGinnis and Mark Horn, with Jim and Harvey's tenacity and athleticism not quite up to the experience and craftiness of the McGinnis/Horn team.

Thurs PM - Dinner and Save the Children auction at El Torito where players bring disc memorabilia from basements, frisbee walls and safes. A veritable collectors dream! Three Tom Boda bags go for $100 apiece (Sunny just HAD TO HAVE ONE!).

Friday AM - Last official round of golf. Joy unofficially manages to beat Tiina's overall score for the week by one stroke (someone's got to give Tiina a run for her money!). Steve gets the lowest NEFA round with a 53, but DJ is the only NEFA member to place in the top ten in golf, a real accomplishment considering the caliber of the competition. The afternoon brings the DDC finals for Women and Grandmasters with the Gladstone/Cade family taking honors. Both Sunny and his partner and Jude with Tiina manage to win their respective divisions. Jude also does well in discathon by shaving 2 minutes off of her original time - thus earning her the "NEFA Shredder of the Day" award. Rick Williams is awesome in Freestyle with his partner Merrill Detweiler. Steve and DJ are fun, but a bit unorthodox (ahem!).

Sat AM - More finals. Tiina sweeps distance and freestyle and takes 2nd in Accuracy and Self Caught Flight (SCF) to Susie Horn. Sunny follows suit by taking honors in Accuracy and 4th in SCF. Rick and Merrill shred their way to first place in Freestyle. The rest of us sneak away for another few rounds of golf.

Sat PM - Awards banquet at local restaurant. Lots of good cheer and comraderie. Tiina takes home the loot for the Women, with Sunny tying for 2nd overall with Phil Pollack in the Grandmasters division. Kudos to Jim Palmeri for putting on a memorable event (even with the rust). And yes, NEFA will return!

Just follow these simple steps, and you too can banish that diapered little monster child within and turn around your disc etiquette forever. Here's how:

1. Find new role models. Stop worshipping pop stars like Madonna and Milli Vanilli. If you're going to do right by your discs, you must begin to place emphasis on family values. Just the other day, for instance, at the New Hampshire Championships, the dense forest made me think of Dan Quayle, our Vice President. Now there's a good role model! As I threw, I visualized Dan Quayle's brain at a spelling bee. It's easy. You can too!

2. Comport yourself like the British royal family. Appoint yourself head of your own state, in your own mind. Now that you're royal, you've got to act maturely and responsibly, right? Well, yes. Your first duty is to go out and turn the polo grounds into a Mach III disc golf course. Now, start playing proper like Princess Di, Prince Charles and Fergie. They really know how to play! So will you. For added benefit, think of Margaret Thatcher in the buff when you throw. You'll really huck it!

3. Visualize Mr. Ed. When Mr. Ed gets mad at Wilbur, he has four hooves to stomp around on. When you lose it on the folf course, you only have two feet. Think of all the discs you're sparing!

4. Stay close to home. Don't just rely on famous role models to help you forge ahead on the road to self-control and maturity. There are people you see everyday who are wonderfully mature: friends, neighbors, your local insurance agent -- make your own list. In fact, the best examples of even-keeled sobriety probably come right from your own family. For instance, as I now approach the tenth tee here at Borderland, who is there in my mind to guide me? It's...WHOA, WAIT A MINUTE, I DIDN'T MEAN YOU...OHH NOOO, IT'S ...MY MOTHER!!!

The 16th Annual Rhode Island States

by T. M. Dyer

If you weren't there, you missed all the sun and fun that could be crammed into just one beautiful Saturday in Newport's Miantanomi Park. After three straight years of dealing with the rain, we finally had sun and lots of it. A personal thank you to the nineteen people who helped set up and run the event.

July 18, 1992, featured disc golf, discathon, accuracy and freestyle, with a stage and sound system for the emcee to keep order. The player package included a hot X-15 with the Miantanomi Park logo. Fifty-four players competed for more than 30 T-shirt and 40 discs as prizes, as well as bragging rights, in five divisions. Jason Southwick took the overall for the 3rd time in four years. Peter Anderson and Toddy Brodeur tied for 2nd place in golf; Pete must have more 2nd place finishes than anyone in NEFA history!

The tentative date for the 17th Rhode Island States is July 17, 1993. Also, the 2pm Sunday tee off in Miantanomi Park is still on and always will be. Also be sure to be seen at the Ledges on October 3; it will be disc golf heaven!

Dog Disc Demo in Connecticut

The 9th annual Canine Disc Festival was held in Norwich, Conn. on Sunday, August 23. It was sponsored by Animal House Pet Supplies, with proceeds to benefit the March of Dimes. NEFAns Rick Williams, Carl Emerson and Jeff O'Brien teamed up to provide a disc skills clinic in between the flying dogs. A splendid time was had while awareness of disc sports continued to grow in New England.

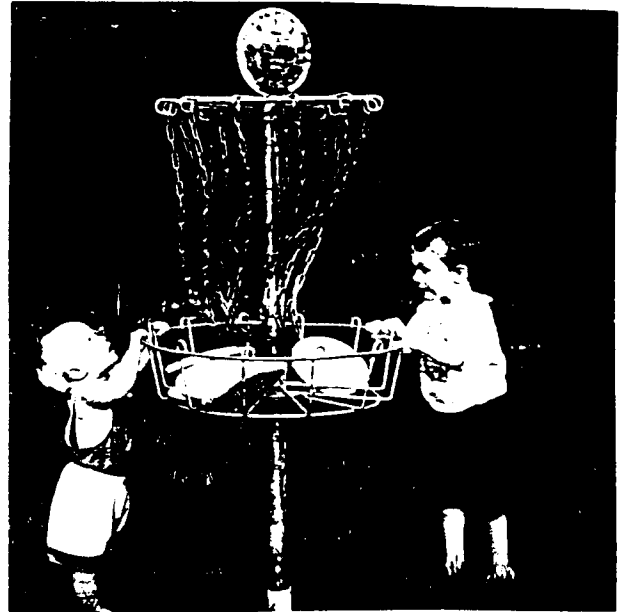

Update on New Disc Golf Course

It's true; there is finally another permanent 18-hole disc golf course in New England! Normandy Farms Campground in Foxboro, Massachusetts, now has a 4000 ft. course, complete with poleholes from Greg Black, tee signs from Carl Emerson, and a beautiful natural setting courtesy of Normandy Farms. The holes generally range in distance from 225 to 275 feet, and require a variety of accurate throws to thread the narrow fairways. As a special deal for disc golfers, the campground is offering a special $5 all day rate to play the course and use any of the facilities, which include pools, playgrounds, Jacuzzi, and more. Season passes are also available.

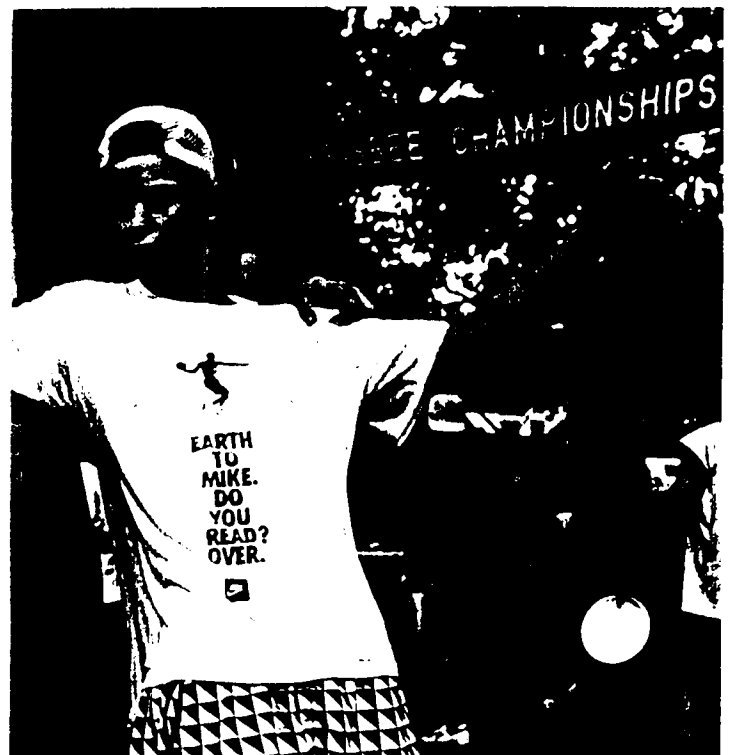

Directions to the campground are as follows: From the south, I-495 to Rte. 1, and north 1 mile; from the north, 3 miles south of Foxboro Stadium on Rte. 1-- turn east on Thurston St., 1 mile to campground entrance, register at main building. For further information, contact the campground at (508) 543-7600.
