

HICKORY POND INN & GOLF
PRESENTS:
THE HICKORY POND
"BACK NINE"
DISC GOLF COURSE

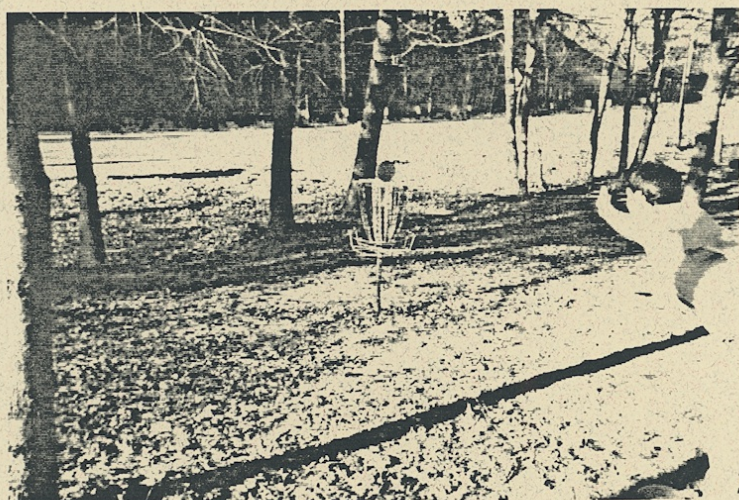

Local pro, Roy Doar, tees off over Hickory Pond

Disc golf (think Frisbee) is like regular golf with players "driving" (throwing) from tee pads and putting at targets called "pole-holes". These are metal contraptions with a basket and a ring of chains which are designed to catch discs. When the disc is in the basket, the hole is completed and the score is carded. Our 9 hole course winds through a mixed Cedar and Hickory forest and features raised tees, rock outcroppings, and a choice of playing from the Blue(shorter) or the White(longer) tee pads providing a challenge for beginners and veterans alike.

Visiting pro, Mark Ide, displays good form on this putt at Hickory Pond.

There are over 550 permanent disc golf courses around the world and though the game has been played in New England at dozens of "object" courses in parks, camps, backyards, and colleges for years, ours is one of only six established pole-hole courses in New England. Disc golf is a fun, healthy activity for all ages.
Try it...you'll like it!
