the New England Flying Disc Association Newsletter

Year in Review

by Rick Williams

The year 1994 has been great for the New England Flying Disc Association (NEFA). NEFA has seen growth in many areas – from new disc golf courses, to new members – and the potential for 1995 looks even better as 1994 comes to a close.

In 1994, New England saw its first public, permanent, 18 pole hole disc golf course installed. The course is located at Burgess Park in Marstons Mills, Massachusetts. Nine of the pole holes were obtained by having the most players, 272 in the category of participants at a non-permanent pole hole course, at the World's Biggest Disc Golf Weekend last May. One pole hole was won at 1993's "World's Biggest" at Burgess Park for having a large turnout. The Town of Barnstable Recreation Department purchased six pole holes, and the remaining two were obtained using funds the Caped Cod Fish Golf Association has raised over the years. NEFA thanks Lev and Nancy Malakhoff, Lindsey Counsell, and the Caped Cod Fish Golf Association for making a public pole hole course in New England a reality!

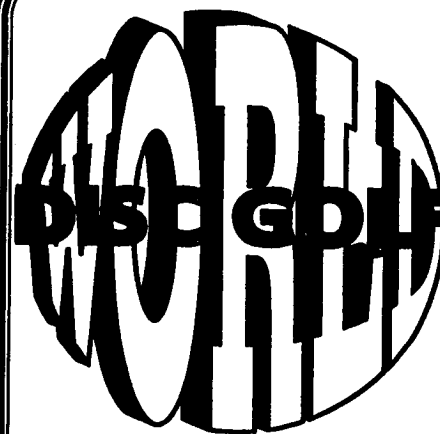

There are several other sites in New England where installation of a permanent disc golf course is in the works. The closest to completion is in South Windham, Connecticut thanks to the efforts of Brian Traichel. Twelve pole holes have been purchased and installation should be complete by the spring. Brian is also assisting Carl Emerson in setting up a course in Thompson, Connecticut. Carl has already established a permanent object (posts) course at Roseland Park in Woodstock, Connecticut. The portable NEFA pole holes are already wintering there for Mach II pole hole play. Thanks to NEFA's funds and Roy Doar's work, the NEFA pole holes have been upgraded with a second set of chains to Mach II. Adam Fasciolo and Willie McBride are trying to get a course into Cranberry Park in Norwalk, Connecticut. The park was the site of several Connecticut State Flying Disc Championships in the early and mid 1980's. Toddy Brodeur is attempting to get a course established at the Blue Hills Ski Area in Milton, Massachusetts. The interest at Blue Hills has been good. Talks have been initiated between Jeff O'Brien and the president of the Friends of Harkness to include disc golf at Harkness Memorial State Park, a beautiful setting next to the ocean, near New London, Connecticut.

New disc golf tournament sites in 1994 were in the states of Vermont, Connecticut, and New Hampshire. The first Vermont State Flying Disc Championships were organized by Paul Olander and Todd Sternbach. Brian Traichel held a tournament in Windham, Connecticut and Roy Doar obtained the Hickory Pond ball golf course to host disc golf in Durham, New Hampshire. Other new tournament directors deserving mention include David White for directing his first tournament, held at Normandy Farms last April. Jeff O'Brien put together a 'doubles day' disc event in Harkness Memorial State Park in May. Dave Jones organized a New York State Flying Disc Championship, held at the permanent disc golf course in Mt. Kisco, NY.

Average participation at tournaments has increased in 1994. With an average of 40 participants per tournament, NEFA has doubled the turnouts of a couple of years ago. Record numbers

Dear Editor:

I am currently conducting research for a new book on the history and birthplace of Frisbee playing. (Ultimate Frisbee is being considered as a demonstration sport for the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta, GA).

I need to rediscover early Frisbee games, artifacts, competitions and published results. Did any Frisbee clubs or associations exist? Does anyone have an old newspaper clipping or photograph? I especially need samples of Frisbie Pie Pans with Pie Case, the Scalo flying disc, Wham-O Pluto Platters with packaging and any early examples of flying disc type objects. (I will reimburse expenses etc.)

I would like to invite anyone with early (PRE-1965) Frisbee information to please contact me and become part of the process. I will inform everyone involved with this Frisbee research of my final conclusions. Thank you and Smooth Flights!

Discourse

by Lev Malakhoff

It's new and it's news. This summer we planted a complete Mach III polehole course on Cape Cod. Thanks to the great NEFA turnout at the World's Biggest in May, the generosity of DGA and the Town of Barnstable, and our fund-raising efforts, seventeen shiny new poleholes arrived one Friday in July. Our Saturday morning volunteers sweated it out, wrenching and welding our galvanized garden. Counting one won at the previous Biggest, New England now has a public Mach III polehole course.

This year I've been fortunate to play some other courses and have the following observations:

San Diego's Morley Field has some exciting vegetation to play through and over. It does have a fee to play (presently $1/day to cover maintenance, profit, etc.). There is no reason to expect this fee to remain unchanged now that the precedent has been set. We as players and teachers of future players have an interest in keeping our courses free and should do everything we can to keep them free such as: A. Little Litter: 1. don't litter, 2. pick up litter, 3. give a hard time to those who do.

B. Assist in occasional course upgrades/maintenance (remember-as players we can guide changes that make sense)

C. Support the cost of improvements (our next big expense will be tee signs).

Fort Collins/Denver Area courses are generally longer than ours with holes that play along and across streams, with a lot of pedestrian/bicyclists travelling through on paved walks. I was unfortunate to loose three of my four discs (the first day!) in a muddy brook. Looking at our courses, Item B is key when we try to minimize conflicts between golf (and other disc) activities and other park users.

In closing - thanks for all of your support - and look for your opportunity to earn bucks in our upcoming tee sign/construction sweepstakes.©

Transitions

Tom Petrie is moving from Hudson, New York to central New Jersey. At the Massachusetts Flying Disc Championships this year, Tom aced hole one, but unfortunately it was during practice. Maybe next year he'll save the ace for the tournament round.©

Colin Browne is moving from Massachusetts to Pennsylvania. Colin has always been a top disc golfer in New England. He won the Borderlands Spring Fling a few years ago and tied for first in the recent Hickory Pond tournament in New Hampshire, before losing the playoff by one stroke.©

Edwin "Stick" Dissossway sailed in from Wisconsin for a visit over Thanksgiving weekend. Old timers may remember Stick's early involvement as NEFA co-founder and catalyst. He managed to round up Dave "D.J." Johnson, Steve "The Heave" Hartwell, and Mark "Glide" Ide for some rounds of disc golf at Normandy Farms Campground in Foxboro. Scores were not reported, but assurances were received that Edwin will visit again in 1995 to add comraderie and competition when it's least expected.©

"The Quest for the Green Cap"

by Roy Doar

Durham, N.H. -10/29/94- Yes, it's true! Disc golf is alive and well in New England. In fact, new standards of quality are being set here in several aspects of the sport, namely player comforts and spectator appeal. On October 29th, 36 players met at the Hickory Pond Inn and Golf Course in coastal New Hampshire for a day of luxury disc golf. Proprietors Doug and Libby Baker graciously allowed NEFA's baskets to be set up on their 9 hole par 3 golf course, an idyllic layout featuring raised tees, tree lined fairways, massive rock outcroppings, elevation changes, and of course the Pond. A practice range adjacent to the 6th hole allowed the addition of 2 holes, so the golfers faced 11 admittedly gentle, but nonetheless beautiful, holes averaging nearly 275 feet. Along with the classic benches and tee markers, the tees sported "bag-stands", put up just for the event. A few hours of woodworking with leftover 4 x 4's, a 2 x 10, some plywood, some 3/4" dowels, and a coat of white latex were all that was needed to create an amenity which many agreed should become a standard of the game. The luxurious Hickory Pond layout provided the inspiration and proved to be perfect spot for their debut. Other highlights included a morning coffee, bagel, and fruit buffet, a homemade chili lunch with the works and a pair of custom maple candies for each entrant. The 2nd round had 2 "closest-to-the-pin" holes; one for the 32 open division players and one for the 4 non-open division players. Each winner will receive a year's subscription to Disc Golf Journal. Other tourney prizes were golf bags, golf towels, discs, D.G.J. minis, maple syrup, and a Hickory Pond ensemble: a T-shirt, a sweatshirt, and to the Open division winner, the coveted "Green Cap".

As NEFA members are used to off-season conditions at tournaments aptly named "Frozen Fruits" and "Frostbite Open", the players were ready for a blustery day, but instead were treated to perfect weather - light breezes, filtered sunshine, low 70's - truly Indian Summer in N.H. Midway through the first round, many witnessed the dynamic landing of a resident Great Blue Heron into the reeds fringing the pond. With a timely call of "Fore!", more than one player was ducking for cover. However, it was not the only "bird sighting" discussed over the hot chili which awaited the golfers at the clubhouse. After the 1st round of 22 holes, Steve Hartwell led the pack with a sparkling 11 under par, 2 strokes ahead of Colin Browne and 4 ahead of a trio of perennial power arms, Brent Sanderson, Pete Anderson, and Bob De-Costa. Mother-daughter twosome of Tami Melish and Christina Bordieri were neck and neck in the Women's division while young Tom Dyer was alone at the top of the Junior division.

The lead foursome's afternoon round was a classic back and forth struggle, and as they faced the final hole, Browne, having played bogeyless golf for 43 holes, led Sanderson by 2 strokes. Browne had birdied the hole an hour earlier, so it appeared to all involved that the pre-announced playoff on a custom 400+ foot hole from the 5th tee over the pond to the 1st pin would not take place. But, after shanking his drive, Browne "missed the window" in his sidearm attempt to save par, then laid up and blew his bogey putt! Greedy, lazy, tired, or dumb? You decide. Understandably stunned, he and Sanderson headed to the 5th tee, as the word spread of a tie and a gallery hurriedly assembled around the 1st "green". Following unimpressive drives, Sanderson "parked" his 150 foot approach, forcing Browne to sink his 40 foot putt to stay alive. Still a bit shaken no doubt, his bid was off line. Sanderson, a standout in this year's NEFA series, topped off the season in style as he "wished" his wrong-side putt into the basket to win and take the "Green Cap", while the crowd showed its appreciation to both players.

As Hartmut Wahrmann said, referring to his time at the U.S. Open, "It's like a big family". That is nowhere more true than in New England where established courses are few and where the season is short. In fact, the 100+ NEFA members support Disc Golf with a passion. Note that Burgess Park on Cape Cod was one of three courses in the world to win a set of Pole Holes in this year's "World's Biggest". Yes, our courses are a bit shorter, but our woods are a bit thicker.

Association News

Minutes of the NEFA Board Meeting, Nov 3, 1994

1. Minutes from the previous meeting were reviewed from NEFA News and accepted.
2. The Treasurer's report was amended to include the accounts receivable from the Maine State Championships. The report was accepted as amended.
3. Data Base report: a) Steve needs tournament directors to send names, renewals, etc. to him after the tournament. b) Tournament mailings by NEFA vs Tournament Directors was discussed. For now, Tournament Directors will do the mailing. c) Another postcard mailing to increase 1995 membership was discussed. Further discussion is needed. d) There are 117 current members, however, more recruiting is needed. e) NEFA points will be tabulated in time for the newsletter.
4. Newsletter: a) An election page flyer is needed for members to vote. b) A reminder that 1995 renewals are due. c) The Fall newsletter is paid for. d) Items for future newsletters should be sent to the NEFA PO Box and not to Doug.
5. Trailer: The trailer is in good shape and currently resides with Roy Doar.
6. Pole Holes: a) Getting hoops for the bottom of the second set of chains was discussed. b) The number plates need embellishment.
7. Incorporation of NEFA was discussed. All thought is was a good idea, but we need a person to spearhead the project and the finances to support it.
8. Plans were made for the NEFA Fundraiser. Two rounds of golf and a closest-to-the-pin contest was decided.
9. Upcoming Events: a) RI Frostbite Golf - Jan 14. b) Indoor Disc/Footbag - Feb 4. c) Frozen Fruits Golf - Feb 25. d) Blue Hills Golf (World's Biggest) - May 6 & 7.
10. From the Floor: a) Should there be State Representatives responsible for overseeing the disc events in their New England state? b) Should NEFA buy a plaque to list past and future winners of the New England Championships (or other tournaments?). c) Should NEFA get a new logo and have a logo contest? d) Should NEFA have bumper stickers printed? e) Does the NEFA charter need amending? f) What to do about publicity?
11. Presidents Thoughts: a) Tim has been assisting those interested in disc golf by providing information on obtaining pole holes and setting up courses. He will continue to provide this service. b) Mark Mudgett's letter was discussed concerning the Massachusetts Championships. All agreed consistency in golf divisions is needed at all tournaments. c) Receiving bids for state tournaments was discussed.

Meeting adjourned at 9:45pm.

event. First, the Bakers for providing the venue and the hospitality. Without their open-mindedness, a taste of luxury disc golf in New Hampshire would still be just a pipe dream. Also, an enormous thank you to my wife, Kathy, whose patience and support helped keep this 1st time T.D. on track and who, by setting up the lunch buffet, allowed me to play. Finally, thanks go to all the players who came and showed the public how stylish and fun our sport can be. By respecting the environment ("no cleats on the greens") and by truly acting as golfers, we can look forward to the tourney being an annual, if not a semi-annual, event. Nice job, folks! Thanks and come again.

In the "last but not least" department, a big "Thanks!" goes to Doug Russell. Those bushels of apples that appear at "Frisbee Central" at our Fall tournaments are courtesy of Russell family orchards. The NEFA News which magically appear in our mailboxes every couple months are the result of Doug's many hours of editing, compiling, and (ugh!) typing. Maybe if he could spend a bit more time practicing his putting, he would be better than merely 3rd place...a spot which he has owned for most of the year. Just kidding, Doug. We're lucky to have you. See you all at the "Fruits", and remember, — drive carefully — but putt even more carefully.©

showed up for the Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and New England State Flying Disc Championships this year. The other disc sports saw an increase in participation, too. The summer of 1994 saw a second season of double disc court in Weston, Massachusetts. The pick-up games were played until dark and then the real fun began when the lights came on. Play abruptly ends when the lights go out, sometimes in the middle of a double touch situation! Many players tried accuracy, maximum time aloft (MTA), and discathon for the first time at the state tournaments. More people tried their hand at freestyle with the introduction of an amateur division at the New Hampshire State and New England Flying Disc Championships. Even some juniors got into the act, with Little John Affonso and Tommy Dyer putting on a fun show at the Rhode Island State Flying Disc Championships. Tommy also freestyled at the Connecticut State Flying Disc Championships with not-so-junior, first-time styler Lev Malakoff. Freestylers around New England traveled more often this year to gather for casual jams.

Where can NEFA do better in 1995? Although 1994 saw an increase in total membership, the number of current members renewing was lower than usual. NEFA loses too many members every year. This trend must be reversed. Do you realize for the $10 membership fee you receive $17 worth of material?! Where else can you get a bargain like this! Ten dollars is less than most people spend for one dinner, or for a movie ticket and popcorn, and that's for one evening, not one year. Please renew for '95.

For 1995 let's all keep the positive momentum going by encouraging former members to renew, enlisting new members, volunteering to help with various NEFA activities, trying out other disc sports (good cross-training for disc golf!), and seeking out more land for disc golf. See you in flight!©

event. First, the Bakers for providing the venue and the hospitality. Without their open-mindedness, a taste of luxury disc golf in New Hampshire would still be just a pipe dream. Also, an enormous thank you to my wife, Kathy, whose patience and support helped keep this 1st time T.D. on track and who, by setting up the lunch buffet, allowed me to play. Finally, thanks go to all the players who came and showed the public how stylish and fun our sport can be. By respecting the environment ("no cleats on the greens") and by truly acting as golfers, we can look forward to the tourney being an annual, if not a semi-annual, event. Nice job, folks! Thanks and come again.

In the "last but not least" department, a big "Thanks!" goes to Doug Russell. Those bushels of apples that appear at "Frisbee Central" at our Fall tournaments are courtesy of Russell family orchards. The NEFA News which magically appear in our mailboxes every couple months are the result of Doug's many hours of editing, compiling, and (ugh!) typing. Maybe if he could spend a bit more time practicing his putting, he would be better than merely 3rd place...a spot which he has owned for most of the year. Just kidding, Doug. We're lucky to have you. See you all at the "Fruits", and remember, — drive carefully — but putt even more carefully.©

showed up for the Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and New England State Flying Disc Championships this year. The other disc sports saw an increase in participation, too. The summer of 1994 saw a second season of double disc court in Weston, Massachusetts. The pick-up games were played until dark and then the real fun began when the lights came on. Play abruptly ends when the lights go out, sometimes in the middle of a double touch situation! Many players tried accuracy, maximum time aloft (MTA), and discathon for the first time at the state tournaments. More people tried their hand at freestyle with the introduction of an amateur division at the New Hampshire State and New England Flying Disc Championships. Even some juniors got into the act, with Little John Affonso and Tommy Dyer putting on a fun show at the Rhode Island State Flying Disc Championships. Tommy also freestyled at the Connecticut State Flying Disc Championships with not-so-junior, first-time styler Lev Malakoff. Freestylers around New England traveled more often this year to gather for casual jams.
